Community Appoints Rob Davidson for EMEA Sales

Community Professional Loudspeakers is pleased to announce the appointment of Rob Davidson to the UK-based position of EMEA Sales Manager. With an early career in medical technology sales, Davidson joins Community from the professional audio export company, PAXT Ltd., where he held the position of Senior International Sales Manager.

Davidson will report directly to Community's CEO, Steve Johnson, who commented, "We're very pleased to welcome Rob to the team. Combined with excellent technical experience, he has a proven track record of building great working relationships with distributors, consultants, system integrators and dealers."

Johnson continued, "With our wide offering for installed sound, market leading all-weather systems, and new products like the IV6 modular vertical array already rapidly increasing sales, Rob's professional approach will provide great support for our important EMEA markets."

Davidson added, "I am delighted to be joining Community, a brand whose products and ethos I respect and believe in. At its core, Community is dedicated to delivering high quality, great sounding products, providing practical solutions across a wide variety of installed applications. This will always make our products suitable and desirable, so I see plenty of growth opportunity across the region. Community has a 50-year heritage of designing outstanding loudspeakers, including some genuine game-changers. I have already had the opportunity to preview the exciting products coming in the near future that will continue this legacy of innovative engineering. I am looking forward to joining the hardworking and dedicated
